Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Saturday 24 Jul 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Some heavy showers in southeast, sunnier and warm in northwest.

This Evening and Tonight:
Heavy showers and thunderstorms in parts of southern England slowly fading though the odd one lingering, while heavier bursts of rain affect parts of the southeast later. Northeastern areas seeing low cloud spreading inland again, while the northwest mostly clear.

Sunday:
The southeast seeing rain give way to heavy showers and thunderstorms, a few further west too but some warm sunshine in between for most. Further north mainly fine and warm.

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:
Broadly unsettled with rain or showers for most, heavy at times with thunder. Breezy around northern and southern coasts. Warm again on Monday, but becoming cooler by Wednesday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.